4,700 job cuts set for HSBC

P10 | Business | biz mainnews | by Agencies and Avery Chen... 更多

HSBC (0005) has confirmed it plans to cut more than 4,700 jobs worldwide.

That came despite the banking giant reporting a 15.82 percent year-on-year increase in its first-half pretax profit to US$12.41 billion (HK$96.79 billion) and revealing an up to US$1 billion share buyback.

"We expect this year to have US$650 million to US$700 million of severance costs; that involves less than 2 percent of our workforce," chief financial officer Ewen Stevenson said in a analyst call yesterday.

"It's about 4 percent of our total salary costs, so you should assume from that it is targeted at more senior people in the organization," HSBC had 235,217 employees in December.

At the end of April, the bank started a cost review that would lead to job cuts and executives were considering eliminating hundreds of investment banking positions. The cuts were expected to begin at the unit as soon as mid-June and take place over the year.

HSBC expects severance costs to range from US$650 million to US$700 million this year, with annualized savings of a similar amount.

After-tax profit grew 18.07 percent to US$9.94 billion for the first six months this year while adjusted pre-tax profit was up 6.76 percent to US$12.52 billion.

Its second-quarter adjusted pretax profit was US$6.19 billion, higher than a US$5.7 billion analyst estimate compiled by HSBC.

It declared a second interim dividend of 10 US cents per ordinary share, the same as the first dividend declared in May. First-half net profit advanced 18.6 percent to US$8.51 billion, while basic earnings per share were 42 US cents.

"Interest rates in the US dollar bloc are now expected to fall rather than rise, and geopolitical issues could impact a significant number of our major markets," HSBC said.

"Interest rates in the US dollar bloc are now expected to fall rather than rise, and geopolitical issues could impact a significant number of our major markets," HSBC said.

Chairman Mark Tucker played down the impact of protests in Hong Kong and said HSBC remained confident about the future of the Asian financial center.

HSBC shares fell 1.85 percent to HK$61 yesterday. Its London-listed share dropped as much as 2.1 percent.
